

Johnson Training Ltd safeguarding of children and adults, and the duty of Prevent policy

Safeguarding looks at the wider practice(s) surrounding the needs of children, young people and adults at risk. Safeguarding can be defined as keeping children and adults safe from harm, such as illness, abuse or injury.

The government guidance, 'Working together to safeguard children' (March 2015), states that safeguarding is defined as:

- protecting children from maltreatment
- preventing impairment of children's health or development
- ensuring that children are growing up in circumstances consistent with the provision of safe and effective care
- taking action to enable all children to have the best chances in life

All agencies working with children and adults at risk should take all reasonable measures to ensure that the risks of harm to an individual's welfare are minimised. When there are concerns about an individual's welfare, all agencies should be equipped to take appropriate action(s) to address those concerns, working to agreed local policies and procedures in full partnership with other local agencies, where applicable. With this in mind, Johnson Training Ltd takes its responsibilities very seriously in relation to the management of these risks.

- We do carry out work in schools, hospitals and hospices and in this context, our trainers, consultants and staff (team members) will need to be met by a representative of the host organisation for whom the course is delivered.
- The team member will need to be escorted to the training room, plant and swimming pool in order to deliver the course.
- Course participants will include staff members from the host organisation.
- The host organisation's representative will accompany our team member whilst on site.
- Our team member will never be left alone with either a child or vulnerable adult and the organisation will be required to play their part in ensuring the safety and wellbeing of all team members and participants.
